

A TECH TALENT SOLUTION THAT WORKS

CANDIDATES WHO REALLY UNDERSTAND THE TECH INDUSTRY

In late 2019 Tech Returners welcomed a cohort of returners looking to refresh their skills, reignite their careers and looking to connect with forward thinking businesses who recognise the benefit of returner talent.

Infinity Works were already a business with a commitment to creating diversity within their teams and were keen to work with Tech Returners to continue these efforts and engage with candidates who had a wealth of transferable skills and who understood the tech industry.

Infinity Works chose to sponsor two places on the cohort which started in September 2019, with the opportunity to hire up to the same amount.

“

The maturity of the individuals after 15 weeks is enlightening, their commercial knowledge, presentation skills and the fact they've come from industry before, it's just the perfect option.

PUTTING LEARNING INTO ACTION

In January 2020 The cohort presented their final projects to an audience of businesses and peers including Infinity Works who hired two of the cohort as Full Stack Developers in what they called a unique opportunity for the industry to bring people into specialist roles and to move people who may have otherwise written off a future in tech - the opportunity to return.

“

We've uncovered such a breadth of backgrounds and life experiences in the individuals from Tech Returners and I believe that's something the tech industry can only benefit from.”
